

About the Author:

Charles C.W. Cooke is a writer at National Review and a graduate of the University of Oxford, where he studied modern history and politics. His work has focused especially on Anglo-American history, British liberty, free speech, the Second Amendment and American exceptionalism. Cooke is the co-host of the Mad Dogs & Englishmen podcast and has appeared on HBO (Real Time with Bill Maher), BBC, MSNBC, Fox News, The Blaze, CNBC, CTV, ABC, Sun News and CBS. In addition to frequently being published in National Review, his writing also has been published by The National Interest, The Washington Times and the New York Post.

---

